DORESSED TO THE MEMBERS OF THE LEG SLATURE OF RY. Listen to the sembers of the LEG *LATURE
Listen to the simple eared
Which our lips delight to sing
Of the School your leands have planted
We have come some fruit to bring;
Come with fares all ill unimed
By the beam your care supplies—
Beams of knowledge, which your kindness
Pours upon our meutal eyes.

Only those can tell who've felt it
What a dark some night was ours;
Only such, be truly thankful,
For the light that wakes our powers;
May that light which you have kindled
Spread its radiance every where,
Till the blessings we are reaping
All one sightless brother spare.

In the caves of old Kentucky,
Forms of awful granded r stand
Wrapt about with rayle's darkness,
Moulded by Jehnvalt's ham!
Yet if light streams in upon them,
Of what becomes are displayed—
So the light within us hidden,
We discover by your aid.

The examination which tollowed was altogethsatisfactory, and highly interesting. Aud then the House adjourned.

EQUAL PAXATION.

We take sincere pleasure in publishing the subjoined correspondence, by a perusal of which it will be perceived that Mr. Casseday, of Lon's ville, will, on Thursday night, deliver in Frank fort, his chaste and elegant lecture, entitled "An Evening with the Poets." The papers published thanks to the Convention for the honor couler in the cities in which Mr. Casseday has delivered his lecture, have unitormly passed the very highost and most gratifying compliments upon the beantiful effort of his mand. We know him to be possessed of a rich and fervid foucy, of an elegant and chaste delivery, and of a fine literary taste and scholarly attainments, and although we have not heard his lecture, we feel assured that it will be a complete snecess. He is an excelleut critic, and as an elocutionist has few, if any superiors. We hope and trust, indeed, we know, that he will be greeted by a large and refined andtence.

FRANKFORT, Jan. 26, 195 BES. CASEDAY, Esq. SIR-Wo the undersigned, respectfully requist that you will favor us, by repealing at an early dio before a Frankfort and ence, your lecture resulty delived in Louisville, entitled "An Evening with the Poets."
